

Abstract of the Disclosure

At least one method is disclosed for an information device to participate in a chat session. A disclosed exemplary method includes obtaining information regarding at least one state variable and applying a predetermined decision logic to the state variable information. The disclosed method also includes identifying a chat trigger from the application of the predetermined decision logic to the state variable information, identifying a chat group associated with the chat trigger, and seeking connectivity between an information device and the chat group associated with the chat trigger.